

OLFA®

OUR MISSION STATEMENT

Providing high-quality Japanese tools that improve how the world cuts.

Because quality counts, OLFA designs, develops and manufactures its products in Japan.

Ever since Yoshio Okada, the founder of OLFA CORPORATION, invented the world's first snap-off blade knife in 1956, OLFA has been committed to developing practical and safe hand-held cutting tools. The snap-off blade knife was conceived as an economical, safe, and efficient cutting tool that always gives users a sharp blade edge to work with by snapping off the used blade segment.

This knife revolutionized how people cut materials and greatly improved work efficiency. The angle and length of OLFA snap blades set the industry standard. Today, snap-off blade knives are used around the world.

OLFA brand blades are made with top quality materials, forged with technologies that stem from traditional sword-making, sharpened with expertise to extend blade life, and ultimately finished with craftsmanship that delivers superior performance.

Users gain full cutting performance of these high-quality blades through handles designed, developed, and manufactured in Japan undergoing stringent quality checks throughout the process. OLFA is proud of the unwavering quality that goes into every product it makes.

OLFA is committed to making tools that improve how people cut materials by developing products with an unmatched level of sharpness that are easy and safe to use. This includes professional-grade tools used in construction trades, shipping and warehouse operations, office work; as well as tools used in the creative world of papercrafts, quilting, modeling, and more.

Every OLFA product is the result of our commitment and attention to detail.
